The mob bombarded the edifice with stones and bricks, broke every window in the building, beat up a half dozen men who had been at the meeting, and a dozen times stormed the church doors in an effort to get at Wilson. From 7:30 o'clock until midnight the mob waited and watched for Wilson and Rev. Percival H. Lynch, pastor of the church, but the detective and clergyman eluded the crowd. At 11 o'clock fifteen men and boys forced their way through the basement of the church, and searched the building. Whether the anti-pass law can annul a free transportation contract entered into before its enactment is an interesting question that has been put up to the Public Service Commission by the Philadelphia and West Chester Traction Company. When this company was building its lines it entered into contract with certain landowners that in consideration of grants of right of way these persons should have free passes over the lines for the remainder of their lives. The commission is asked to determine the status of these contracts in the light of the provision of the subsequent Act of Assembly prohibiting the granting of passes to any but employes.

To the motto "Work and be good," which her mother gave her when she left her old home in Baden, Germany, shortly after being married, Mrs. Wanner attributes her long and happy life. When asked her opinion as to woman suffrage, the aged woman's eyes kindled, and she said: "Is that another foolish idea some women have? I think it is bad enough that some cannot take care of their homes. They do not want to become mothers nowadays, and they will not, if they meddle in politics. I am glad I will never see women go to vote."

GASOLINE EXPLOSION CAUSES CONSIDERABLE EXCITEMENT.

An explosion of a can of gasoline occurred last Saturday afternoon in Butler Bros' jewelry store. Workmen were employed on the outside of the Foster building, removing paint from the brick with a gasoline torch. Their supply became exhausted and the men went into the store to renew the torch. The cover of the supply gasoline can had been carelessly left open. The torch stood a few feet from the can and before the stopper could be applied the gasoline became ignited and flames shot up to the ceiling. It also spread out damaging a show case and breaking a glass in same.

James Cook, of Hoadleys, happened by at the time and kicked the can of flaming gasoline out into the street. The can rolled toward the gutter and came near burning up an out-of-town automobile that was standing nearby. The owner came to the rescue in time to save the car, however.

While the workmen were busied inside the store, boys outside busied themselves with a can of white paint and daubed pillar and post. In a few moments great excitement prevailed at the Foster block.

EXPLANATORY.

To the Public: In order to avoid further criticism of the management of the "Isle of Nod," the Honesdale Improvement Society has decided to change the dates to Friday and Saturday, Nov. 14th and 15th.

When Mr. Hoffman was here three years ago our people were so delighted with his "Trip to the Moon" production that we have tried ever since to secure a return date.

Upon his informing us he could come in November we at once arranged dates satisfactory to him, not thinking to oppose anyone. When attention was called to Institute week, Mr. Hoffman immediately went to Mr. Koehler and later Mr. Koehler met Mr. Hoffman and committee at Mr. Ham's store when it was decided that confection was unavoidable and no one was really to blame and as both attractions were for public benefit, each should help the other.

We wish further to say that at the time our dates were made Mr. Ditrch had a chance to book two professional companies for same dates, which would have proven greater opposition.

All we ask is fair play and success for both attractions.
